Behringer-Crawford Museum, perched in Covington's scenic Devou Park, is dedicated to preserving and celebrating the unique arts, heritage and culture of Northern Kentucky and the the Ohio Valley.

Founded in the former Devou family's 19th century home, the museum opened to the public in 1950 as a natural history museum based on the collections of Covington resident William Behringer. Fossils, minerals and other curiosities from his world travels, including a black bear, a two-headed calf and other anthropological treasures, are still on display. Today, the museum has evolved into an interactive. multi-dimensional cultural center offering education, art, music and history to generations of visitors. With a diverse permanent collection and rotating exhibitions, there are always surprises waiting to be discovered. Explore three levels of permanent exhibits: Level 1 – Riding the Rails; Level 2 - On the Road Again and Level 3 - Rollin' on the River.

The museum will be festooned with vintage Victorian Christmas decorations during our visit, and no antique Christmas is complete without the huffing and puffing of holiday toy trains. A holiday tradition since 1992, the exhibit features eight O-gauge Lionel model trains circling over 250 feet of track, chug chugging beside thirty moving accessories.

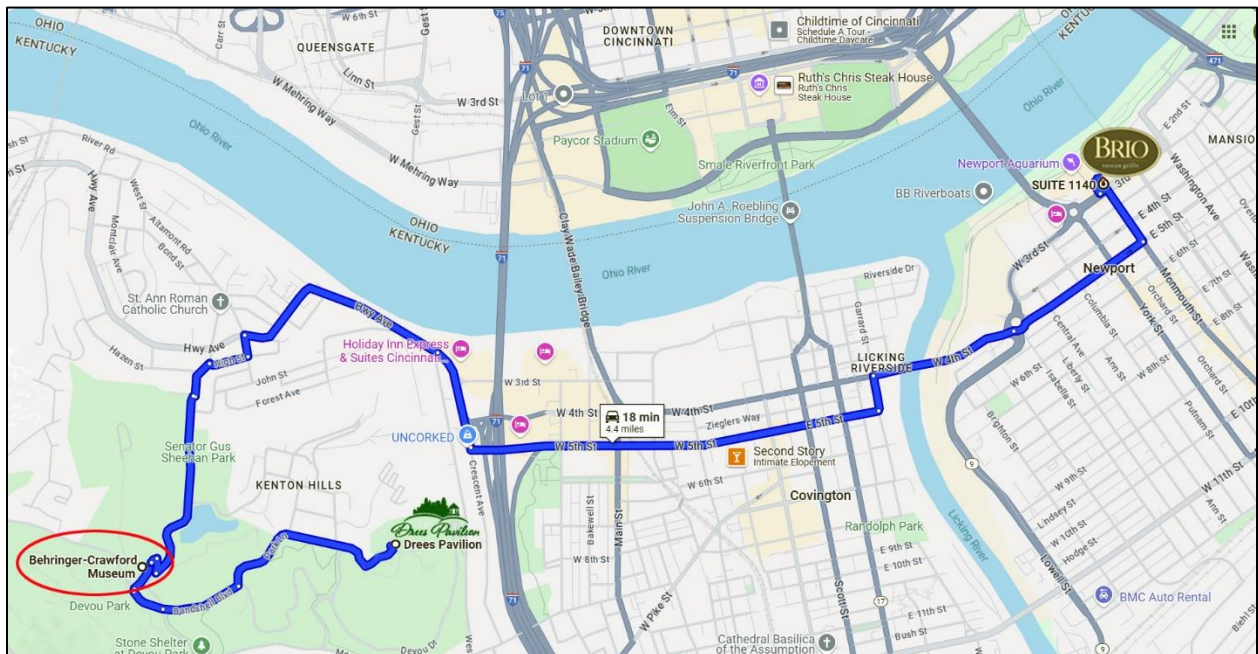

Following our museum visit, we will proceed to Brio's Italian Grille at Newport on the Levee for lunch.
